

Brazil-Amazon

Almost everything about Brazil's north is big. The Amazon Valley is the biggest jungle in the world. One fifth of the world's fresh water flows down the world's biggest river—the Amazon. North Brazil's seven states cover close to half the national territory where there are still vast unexplored regions and unreached tribal groups. Apart from its physical size and its several large cities, Brazil's Amazon is thinly populated, with needs that are staggering. Traditionally Roman Catholic, the Amazon region today includes all the major denominations and religions of the world. While the gospel has greatly impacted certain regions, other areas continue in darkness.

NEEDS

While the early missionaries made a great impact in Brazil's north and while our Brazilian collaborators continue to do so, there are still multiple regions without a gospel witness and Bible preaching churches. There will always be a need for church-planting missionaries.

One of the greatest needs in Brazil's north today is discipleship and Bible school training. Churches seem to spring up easily in some regions but need national leadership to pastor them. Preparing solid leadership is a priority.

Bible camps have been a productive tool to the area local churches. The Amazon region today needs men and women who love people and the outdoors and who can strengthen our camp ministries.

HOW YOU CAN SERVE

If you are a person with a pioneer spirit and have a love for lost souls and for preaching and teaching God's Word, and if you are a person who has a vision to do the impossible and the creativity to get it done, we would love to have you consider joining our team in the Amazon!

We need church planters for unreached areas, teachers for our Bible schools, camp leaders to work with all ages, and ministers of the Word to encourage and challenge our existing national churches throughout the north. Accept the challenge and say, "Lord here am I, send me."
